“FOCUS ON THE SOLUTION NOT THE PROBLEM”

As problems arise in your relationships, you’ll be forced to become a translator, negotiator, diplomat, and peacekeeper. And good communication skills are essential. Nothing is more frustrating than being misunderstood, misheard, ignored, or misconstrued. But talking isn’t always the answer. Sometimes it empowers the problem. Our mistake is we often give too much verbiage to the issue; in other words, we talk about it when we should be quiet and focus on a solution. God has given you the gifts you need to change the situation. Don’t talk about it, instead, do it! If we misuse words or talk out of hand, it can lead us away from a solution we would otherwise see. James tells us that what we say has immense power for destruction. “The tongue...a little member...boasteth great things. Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth” (Jas 3: 5). Just our tone of voice can escalate a conversation into a raging fire! Don’t be the person with flames coming out of your mouth. Tame your tongue. Grab hold of the situation when it arises and bring light and life to it! Our conversations are to be seasoned with grace (Col 4: 6). Speak positively, because God is still on the throne and He has a plan. Responding appropriately often requires quietness, then careful reflection. And sometimes it’s better just to remain quiet. When you’re anxious, chances are you’ll overtalk. When you’re angry, you’ll make the situation worse. And when you’re too aggressive, you’ll lose instead of winning. The Bible says, “In quietness and confidence shall be your strength.” And that’s a scriptural principle that always works.

Meditate on Isaiah 30: 15

Thought for the Week Glory in Our Differences

IN 1 CORINTHIANS 9: 20-21, Paul describes people with different practices and identities-and then explains that he became like each group in order to tell them the good news.

Though we know our primary identity is in Jesus Christ, we each have a specific background that informs our life. Our ethnicity, family, and other identifiers were given to us by God. He formed every detail-and each of us uniquely bears His image. He wants us to honor His image in one another, no matter how different our backgrounds or circumstances.

This is part of what it means to belong to the body of Christ: to fully embrace one another’s differences, understanding that God uses every part of who we are to bring Him glory. It should affect how we think of people who aren’t like us-especially other believers-and should also influence the way we evangelize, letting people come as they are, free to be themselves.

THINK ABOUT IT

Can you think of a time when you became aware of ways you were different from a group? Can you remember if anything made you feel welcome, in spite of those differences? If not, what intensified your awareness of not fitting in? Consider how to apply your insights in your family and community.

It is with love and heartfelt gratitude that we thank you for your coats and monetary donations. Each coat that was given was wrapped in warmth in God's love, each recipient was overjoyed, many came without a coat and wore their coat home.

Every Christian should strive to learn how to be a cheerful giver. What does it actually mean when we give? It simply means we, cheerfully give to God the tithes and offerings. Tithing honors God. Are you giving the Lord His tithes or your tips? The word tithe means to give back to God one tenth of your earnings for the support of the ministry, the expenses of the church, the relief of the poor and the spread of the Gospel throughout the world.
