SCIENCE RECOGNIZES THE POWER OF PRAYER

God’s Word clearly tells us to “pray about everything” Today, science is beginning to recognize the value and the power of prayer. Researchers investigating the role of faith in health are discovering evidence that’s hard to refute. For example, a 2014 study conducted by The Mind Health Report confirmed that people who engage in private prayer, intercessory prayer, and church activities are healthier and live longer. Here are some additional benefits: (1) Florida State University researchers found that praying for somebody increases your readiness to forgive them. When a group of men and women prayed for the well-being of a close friend every day for four weeks, they were more willing to forgive not only the friend but people in general. Forgiveness is associated with better overall health and satisfaction with life. (2) University of Miami researchers discovered that prayer and religious practices improve your ability to pursue and achieve long-term goals. Prayer affects regions in your brain that improve self-control, and people who view their goals as sacred are more determined to attain them. (3) a research study conducted by the University of Wisconsin-Madison concluded that victims of abusive relationships recovered a positive self-image and reduced their emotional pain when their lives included prayer. (4) Columbia University researchers found that people who value religion and regularly attend church are 90 percent less likely to suffer from depression than their nonreligious peers. That’s pretty strong evidence in favor of prayer, wouldn’t you say?

With thankful hearts offer up your...requests to God.” Phil 4: 6 (CEV)

Thought for the Week

“Live Intentionally”

WE ALL WANT TO LIVE LIFE TO THE FULLEST, but to do that, we must have goals to aim for. Few of us take the time to consider where we’re going. How tragic it would be to finish our life and find out we were on a course other than God’s, fighting the wrong fight and struggling to keep the faith.

The apostle Paul is a good role model for living life to the fullest. His goals were to know Christ, abide in His power, fellowship in His suffering, and preach the gospel (Phil. 3: 10; 2 Cor 1: 17). Paul aligned his aspirations with the Lord’s, diligently worked to fulfill his calling, and persevered through suffering. He could face the end of his life with confidence since he’d “fought the good fight...finished the course...[and] kept the faith” (2 Tim. 4: 7).

If you keep doing what you’re doing, you’ll keep getting what you’ve been getting. Don’t settle for the mediocrity of an unplanned life. Set aside some time this week to get alone with the Lord. Then ask for His help in setting goals that will take you where He wants you to go. Consider every area of your life- personal, relational, financial, and vocational-but make spiritual goals your primary emphasis.

Let God help you change directions so you can pursue things that align with His will. Then start living intentionally.

“Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him.” ~ 1 Corinthians 16: 2

Every Christian should strive to learn how to be a cheerful giver. What does it mean when we give? It simply means we, cheerfully give to God the tithes and offerings. Tithing honors God. Are you giving the Lord His tithes or your tips? The word tithe means to give back to God one tenth of your earnings for the support of the ministry, the expenses of the church, the relief of the poor and the spread of the Gospel throughout the world.
